RESEARCH

My principal research interests lie in the field of conservation and the impact upon the South Wales economy. I am currently investigating the impact of tourism, government policy and demography on conservation for my PhD. Using the latest econometric modelling and e-factor analysis techniques, I am producing conservation models and analysis tools including the Eliptor X tool.

Could also include an attached synopsis

My future research plans are to build on the foundations of my PhD to further develop models and tools in conjunction with government bodies, environmental agencies and city financial modellers.

EDUCATION

2002 - 2005

PhD "The Impact of the South Wales economy on conservation – towards conservation modelling"

University of Carmarthen, Centre for Environment & Development

Supervisor: Professor F Smith (submission September, 2005) - leading researcher in conservation.
Partial funding awarded by the Wales Development Agency.

- In close collaboration with the Centre for Finance, The Wales Development Agency and Groundwork Wales, my thesis investigates novel modelling tools and analytical models.
- Econometric modelling, e-factor analysis, the Harvard model are used to track correlations and produce test models.
- Extensive use of databases to manage and analyse statistics.
